

The Best Moments From The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills Panel | BravoCon 2023 | Bravo

So you and Moe have been such a beloved couple of the Bravo verse for so many years now Um Just to check in so much as you're comfortable sharing How do you all stand right now How how is the energy Well you know we love each other very much and um we you know we are family no matter what happens and we have a very strong family unit Um My three girls still live at home only Farah has her own place So um it's still like you know who's gonna be home for dinner tonight on the family chat and you know he's been busy he was busy doing dancing with the stars and um so he wasn't around as much but you know we're just trying to figure it out We know that we love each other And um you do I was going we do have a clip that we uh we're gonna show a little sneak peek Do you need a second Babe Are you take all the time I know That's right Y'all better get that Kyle Ch We are all on your side We are so in your corner Wow I just don't say that you know a lot of people think you know like what what are you doing Just pull together and fix everything Obviously that's what I would want Um This is not my idea of my fairy tale clearly you know But um I'm sorry I just uh thank you Anyway I do appreciate that Thank you Anyway I do appreciate all your um your your support and all that So do we see in the premiere you talk a little bit about worrying uh are we gonna make it PK and myself How is he doing now with supporting you in the ways that you said you need to be supported Work in progress Yes Um you know listen it was a challenging couple of years you know post home invasion and I was going through a lot of things emotionally personally and it took a toll you know on our marriage for sure And we had ups and downs and we rode those waves Um you know it it's something as I've spoken to people that are married or have been married for a long time you know no one seems to say the same thing This is marriage you know and you have your ups and downs and p and I really didn't suffer any bad years in the 13 years we were together So I guess it's our time but we're working through it and um I think we're both hopeful Yeah we being positive and we saw you in the season premiere Confront Erica about what she said at Bravo come last year So have you two genuinely been able to move past that Erica Now why are you looking at me like that You're getting the side I I really am I give everybody a side I can handle it No You know like I said to um J on the first episode when I walked down to the end of the stage of Bravo Khan and said what I said I had no idea that they were going through something personal Had I known I wouldn't have said that I would have said something funny and clever but that's not what happened So I owed her an apology She accepted and I think that we've moved on but it's up to her to decide you know where she's feeling I mean that this is her marriage not my marriage No And you and I did you know you did you uh did the picnic air yet I don't know Ok so Eric and I had that time together and I did accept her apology and I'm not one of those that accepts that apology says I'm over it and then isn't Um but I do want to say something and I know for you specifically because we were going through a hard time you know that's what but we actually weren't going through a hard time when that happened It was still it just felt regardless of learning afterwards that PK and I had some trouble It's still what hurt was that you said PK And I you know even at our greatest and I I knew that I had struck a nerve because you two always laughed off and you weren't laughing this off And so I knew I was like oh God I've really done something and I didn't of course obviously I didn't mean to but it just is one of those things that happened You're in the moment it's Bravo Con and then you have to pay for it later And I did Carcel last time Andy asked about your love life You said as dry as his what is going on these days How is the love life Uh the love life I'm working on it You know I I what I try to do is prioritize what's really important to me And although I would love to have a partner and I go out on dates Um I have a small window with my boys and it's really important that and the emotions we obviously understand You started to open up about that journey One it is so clear You are an incredible mother who is doing the best you can How has it been sharing such a vulnerable aspect of your life this year No that was hard Um That was hard obviously And uh but at the end of the day Jackson and I are in a better place But it was amazing because I remember growing up I wouldn't have been able to say anything any feelings to my parents We weren't brought up like that And so I really wanted to change the narrative and the dynamic of my family and sort of break that cycle of not being able to say something respectfully to your parents And so I'm grateful that the boys got that and they speak their mind Yeah they do It was such an emotionally intense diligent conversation It was a beautiful exchange is exceptional with his words and his intellect He is they both are Do you think at this point Housewives is a misnomer or maybe you're redefining it crystal Um I think something that what's really interesting about the show is that um is that we there's so much about us that not a lot of people know and that the show is like an onion and it shows different layers I actually am a businesswoman I own the second largest coconut water company in the world the second largest coconut water company in the world And people don't know that But what I love about the show it's really it's about our friendship and being moms and wives and girlfriends and all you know and that's what I think the misnomer is that sometimes we don't get to show all of who we are It shows a part of who we are it's one lane of it But you know this uh it's so amazing to the audience to get to see and and um these women all work so hard They all are incredible business women and sometimes it doesn't get to show all the sides of us and I think we deserve more of them Ok You're multifaceted Absolutely Anyone else want to add to that Anne Marie Yeah I'll add to that Um you know what I think that I feel like we are uh redefining the name housewives like we're all modern women We all do a lot of things like I came on the show It was actually my husband I don't even know where he is but hi honey Um He was the one like when Kyle text me um he was the one who was like honey Yes go do this This Marcellus was the one go do it Yes Marcellus So Zuri knows but my husband he played football for um 10 years and broadcasting um ESPN Fox for a very long time And so I was very happy to be like you know mom and like working woman and everything and just very private Like my Instagram was private a year ago You guys very proud person just supporting my husband And so when Kyle messaged me and he's like honey go do this This is something for you This will be an amazing opportunity and he's been telling me for years He's like do a blog do something He's like you're a very um multidimensional person You should do something with that You know I'm a mom I have four kids Um married nurse anesthetist a former college athlete very much into health and fit And I'm like great This is a platform to show people what we do and ultimately like inspire people right Like I grew up on a small farm town in Canada like go make your stuff happen Amen Yes Yes Has the experience been what you expected as the newcomer I've had a blast Everybody like eye rolls at me They're like oh you're so cute The new having fun but like eye rolling it yesterday you guys can see it on the card One answer It was so much fun I have fun in everything I do Like if it's not fun I'm not doing it So I had a blast Like I had a really good time meeting all these ladies building these friendships and relationships Like it it was a fun season and you guys are gonna wait to the reunion I have a reunion
