

The Best Moments From The Real Housewives "Housewife2Housewife" Panel | BravoCon 2023 | Bravo

Gisele I'm gonna move over to this side of the couch Now in our intro to you in the intro to the show season one premiere you described your ex Jamal as quote cheater cheater pumpkin eater So fans I think were really surprised when you decided to give him another shot years later Do you regret doing so Or at least regret putting that on camera No I I if you know me you know I have no regrets Um No I mean he and I have been knowing each other for 20 plus years Um We have three beautiful daughters So at that time I felt like it was another and he and he was in a different space and mental space So I felt like it was a it was if ever we were going to get the family back together that was like the time to try Um that didn't work out but you know I would I think I would have regretted not trying Yeah for sure And that statement was from season one and as we're entering season eight you are bringing a new man into that season a new man on your arm Who's also a part of this Bravo universe How does it feel coming into the Potomac season with this new man on your arm Look at that smile feels good What's the question How good I mean I I'm in a great place I I have said that this season eight for me has been a season in which I wanna just be with the people that I love and have fun with and vibe with and party with and that support me and and he's a part of that you know he's somebody that um I can tell my deepest secrets to and I know he's never gonna repeat it to anyone else and to have that is a great part of just my every day And maybe it feels a little good since Karen had shaded you over your relationship status your dating status that you can bring this relationship and rub it in her face a little bit Now does that feel good It doesn't take much to rub something in Karen's face My question is for all of you ladies you obviously get a lot of love and support but you also do get a lot of criticism So my question is if any of your kids come and tell you that they want to be a real housewife what would you say to them Would you approve And what advice would you give to them Absolutely not I think my daughters like see me doing it and they don't even think it because they realize like it's kind of a unique thing It's not something you strive to become It's something that like magically happens by pure str you know black lightning bolts And so they wouldn't even imagine that it was something to aspire to be My daughters want no parts at all Um but but they appreciate not appreciate but they understand when the cameras come and it actually makes them very proud of their mom because they see all that we do and and they understand they understand the late nights they they get that it's like extremely tiring But um yeah they want no parts at all I don't I don't have to worry about that You don't need it You have boys right But Theresa I think a lot of people want to know about g yeah we see her a lot on the show Well I think she's too young to get married Yeah she's too young to get married now But you know if she wants I mean if that happens if that's on her I mean I you know it's her life I know my second daughter will want no part of it Gabriela And yeah she said she likes to show so I could see her maybe doing it in the future And Adrian I'm not sure yet She's 14 It's my question for Kyle I'm just wondering if the reason why the reunion may have been so emotional last year Was that because of what was going on behind the scenes with your marriage and just so much happening that it was just overwhelming No it actually wasn't It was just stuff that was going on behind the scenes with my sister and me and the things that weren't said you know on camera So that's what made it really difficult And I knew that going into the reunion that day it was like there there was a lot at stake and I I really thought if we can't fix it here that's that's gonna be it And I thought when we left there that day that I probably wouldn't speak with my sister again and vice versa So that's why I was so emotional I want you to have some fun this season Kyle I hope you have some Maybe I'll have to wait till another season We did have fun this season Um I think I see a familiar face at the microphone Is that who I think that is sir Can you step up to the microphone and say your name and ask a question All right babe if you had to be locked in an elevator with one bravo lebr who would it be Oh OK Um I mean should I say who who said it Yes La la Yeah La la Yeah La la said she didn't want to be locked in an elevator with me and lo yeah and Louie But I think it would be a dream We would have so much fun A lot of fun Yeah I know And she DM ED me and she said sorry Yeah it was sweet of her Robin I want to ask you a question and it goes into relationship status because you've been very open about your relationship and the things that you've gone through um when Potomac kicked off you were divorced from Juan but you guys were living together but now you're remarried to Juan Let's give a round of applause for that But the two of you have dealt with a lot of drama surrounding your relationship on the show What has been the hardest part about putting your unconventional situation out there for the world to see Um It's just been hard because I understand why we do the things that we do It's been my norm since we were 17 years old Juan and I have been in in we started dating when we were 17 And so we're not only best friends we are our families are greatly intertwined His aunts are my aunts my parents are his parents So our relationship is a lot deeper than what people see on the surface like what the cameras can capture So it's just been kind of hard of just seeing people really not understand the depth of our relationship and just questioning why we do what we do And of course like for me family is like everything and providing a nice solid home for our boys is our motivation And I can say it's it's kind of backwards It's funny I know a lot of people say the show breaks people's relationships apart The show actually brought us closer together because of all of the scrutiny And so I was like we gotta have each other's backs So we were kind of forced to really have each other's backs to tune out all of the outside noise because I think it's the outside noise that really tears people apart Yeah No that makes a lot of sense Um I'm gonna move on to this side of the couch and get to Heather Gay We gotta talk about Salt Lake City season four is on fire What has shocked you the most from this season so far or maybe what we haven't seen yet Well I think the biggest surprise and shocker is just the transition of my relationship with Lisa Barlow because we started to show out um you know two thumbs up fighting and it was just really at each other's throats And this year we discovered some you know things that we had in common and I realized a lot of things that I had done wrong which I is hard to accept and I have like so much love and admiration for her now that I didn't ever think I could get there and now that it's there it makes me realize um our part in everything you know and I just love that I can look back and see that and see that growth And I think that's a nuanced thing Like there's a lot of fun things that happen on the show But the relationships are what make the show work and my relationship with Lisa changed and the fact that it changed four years in I think speaks to the show and the power of it
